"If you look at the London skyline right now, you'll be able to see this," said Rishi Kandathil, the founder of the "aerial graffiti" website. While it's not the first time the skies above London have been graced with graffiti, this is the first time that it's been spotted in flight. "I'm seeing it from all over the UK -- there's a massive one flying over London right now," said Kandathil. "It's getting bigger. It's just been building. We've been getting loads of tips off people." Kandathil, whose website has been tracking the graffiti since its launch in August, has reported that between 25 and 50 pieces of graffiti -- some of which are quite large -- have been seen above the city. But the urban art is far from confined to the skies above London. "This happens all the time," Kandathil told CNN. "Last year, the last week in July, we saw a huge piece of graffiti over Bristol. We saw a huge piece of graffiti over Belfast. There's two big pieces of graffiti in the skies over Manchester. "We've had this a lot over the last few years, actually." Windows 7 64-bit Mac OS X 10.5.8 or later Can be used with any USB device This is a very simple desktop accessory that's basically a solution for the USB port on most laptops. It's easy to use, can be used with any USB device and it has a large capacity. It's the world's first removable USB drive that can be easily stored in your pocket and carry around with you. I never thought that I would want such an accessory. I'd rather take my laptop than carry this around with me
