The Adobe support site contains a wealth of Photoshop-related information, including helpful articles and tutorials. Because Photoshop is such a complex application, even for experienced users, you will find several resources on the web that help you get to grips with its intricacies. A few of my favorites are discussed in the rest of this section. Phlearn.com Phlearn.com offers a series of excellent, free screencasts on both Windows and Mac platforms. Some cover basic aspects of working with Photoshop, and others are more advanced, with some even containing screencasts. These tutorials are not only great for beginners but also for those who have been using Photoshop for some time and want to continue learning new tricks. Tutorials.psstatic.com There are a number of additional tutorials and screencasts available on Tutorials.psstatic.com. The tutorials and screencasts vary in quality from novice to intermediate and advanced. Don't know where to start? Try the Getting Started with Photoshop, shown in Figure 12-2. Figure 12-2: See what Photoshop can do for you with the Getting Started with Photoshop tutorial. Dummies.com You may have experienced a Photoshop tutorial on the TV screen or in a magazine. If so, you have probably seen many of the images in the book accompanying the tutorial. The images are actually Dummies, a series of instructional books available from Wiley Publishing. You can find your copy of the book at Dummies.com. The Dummies series is excellent; they combine effective tutorials with superb images to make learning a fast and enjoyable process. (I'm currently reading the Photoshop book, Core Lightroom book, and the Photoshop book.) Visit Dummies.com and choose from the following topics: * Creating a mock-up using Photoshop * Adding more depth to images * Building a complex image * Editing an image in Photoshop * Manipulating and enhancing an image * Working with special effects, text, and layers * Creating spot and layer effects * Adding an artistic touch to images * Adding your signature or logo * Adding a filter * Scrapbooking You can also pick up a free, digital copy of the Photoshop Workbook at Dummies.com. The Workbook is an excellent resource that gives you a broad overview of Photoshop and explains its functions in a step-by-step manner.

Q: Is there a predefined mechanism for refreshing a ActiveMQ component?
Is there a predefined mechanism for refreshing a ActiveMQ component?
There does not seem to be a way to get AMQ to "notify" you of disconnects/reconnects when connecting/disconnecting to a broker, so I would imagine something like netstat would be great for monitoring this.
A: You will want to follow the API Calls section of the ActiveMQ documentation
For an example, please see the NetstatToggle callback I included example Java code in an answer below protected void netstatToggle(String v, String netstat, String host, long start, long end, boolean new) {
    System.out.println(v);
    System.out.println(netstat);
    System.out.println(host);
    System.out.println(start);
    System.out.println(end);
    System.out.println(new);
//Callback so we can know if the connection to the ActiveMQ was successful or not.
protected static void netstatToggleCallback(String v, String netstat, String host, long start, long end, boolean new) {
    System.out.println(v);
    System.out.

Look around, up, down, and all about. You're in a moving bus. If you could turn on a light, you'd see your new captain. Unfortunately you know her well. You've been married to her for five years. But it's just a year and you had a wonderful honeymoon. Your new life in the big city, your new job, your new husband. But it's so hard. It's like a planet of stress, so much was pulled in. It's like depression, but it's only stress. You don't like stress. It's even harder than depression. What's the difference? What if I said that it's stress, stress, stress? That wouldn't tell you why it's so hard. It's hard because the pressure to perform is so great. You're trying to be perfect. You have pressures that are a different height, a different weight, a different speed. It's like a sleepwalker who believes that he's awake, but he is still dreaming. In New York, the noise is deafening. The light is blinding. You might wake up in the middle of the night, or your feet are frozen as if you just ran a marathon. Your eyes hurt, your chest hurts. You want to go home. You go to your boss and ask for time off. After all, you wouldn't be the first person in New York to try to escape. You know the way
