(The Richest Box Office Simulator Daytonia: The Richest Box Office Simulator is a fictional budget-priced action-adventure film as virtual a reality as you can get, released in 2014. It premiered on YouTube as part of Uproxx Studios' celebration of December 21st for 2014 and began its viral turn starting on December 22nd. Its viral phenomenon helped it become an opening-weekend box-office hit, as well as a Movie Maker and Box Office Mojo nominee. It also beat out such box office hits as Hunger Games: Catching Fire and Iron Man 3. Plot A mentally challenged man named Lake tries to hold up a bank by shooting a gun. He then goes to an actual bank to rob it and finds that it is already closed. As he walks away, a police officer shoots at him, causing him to trip. He is then hit by a bus and placed in an ambulance. He wakes up later at a hospital in a bed. He jumps out of the bed and he finds that he is at his house. He makes his way to his living room. He is eating some cereal in a bowl on his kitchen counter. He reaches for the TV remote at his nearby entertainment center on the side and turns it on. The TV shows a movie trailer called Daytonia: The Richest Box Office Simulator. The movie shows him running around inside a gigantic screen. The viewer sees that Lake is not only inside a TV, but also in a movie theatre. A person comes out of the movie theatre screen and goes into
