Medullary thyroid cancer (MTC) is a neuroendocrine tumor derived from the parafollicular cells of C cells within the thyroid gland. MTC is rare and is estimated to be responsible for 1% to 2% of all thyroid cancer cases. In this report, a case of metastatic MTC to the lung is described in a woman with known lesions in the thyroid gland.Q: Is there an actual impact of Apache Lucene on databases? I have a small project that uses PostgreSQL and Elasticsearch. As I have been developing the project I've also been using Apache Lucene for searching the documents. I have questions about the performance of Lucene on PostgreSQL and Elasticsearch. For PostgreSQL, would it be better to switch from Lucene for searching and searching in the application? What could be the impact of Lucene if I have millions of documents in a database? A: Lucene operates on the file system. It accesses data directly, so there is no gap between the data and the engine. This requires no extra access overhead from the database driver and allows Lucene to use the database optimally. If you use the same database for Lucene, I don't see any reason why you could not have millions of documents. See for instructions on how to install Lucene as a standalone search server.
