This comic is a humorous one, I dare you not to laugh at the sheep on a horse. If any of you can read han script, the whole comic is in han script. A few observations:- the length of the comic reminds me of the Tear Jerker - no, that's not intended to be a superlative. It's shorter than the Tear Jerker, and pretty similar in concept.- The name of the comic is pretty nice and appropriate - "Reverse Firing". It's also funny when you think of the direct contradiction of "fire first".- The first panel is a reference to the Simpsons (I think it's a Simpsons reference) - "There's something about the way I'm dressed that's koo-koo." There's a couple of mistakes in here. When I first looked at it, I thought it was a reference to the movie

'Interview with a Vampire' and the line "I'm not afraid of that vampirical bath." Later on I realised that wasn't actually the case. And the thing about turning against someone who just saved you is rubbish. It's more likely that you'd be seeking revenge, since they saved you.

Autocrine IL-4 expression by an ER negative breast cancer cell line grown in a high serum condition. Soluble IL-4 is a known autocrine and paracrine regulator of cell growth in breast cancer. We demonstrated that IL-4 expression was specifically associated with tumor cells growing as monolayers in the presence of 10% serum in a breast cancer cell line, MCF-7. This report was of an attempt to study the biology of breast cancer cells growing in high serum conditions and the involvement of IL-4 as a possible modulator of cellular proliferation. MCF-7 cells in high serum medium were positive for IL-4 production (10 ng/ml), while in low serum medium (1%) no production of IL-4 was detected. Production of IL-4 was not affected by estradiol or tamoxifen. No IL-4 mRNA production could be detected in this high serum condition by Northern blot analysis using an IL-4 specific cDNA probe. Pretreatment of IL-4-negative, low serum-
