Our overall goals are to define pathogenetic mechanisms underlying the development of insulin resistance and diabetes, and to develop new strategies for the prevention and treatment of these diseases. Applying all this stuff into the new game is not possible in old engine. As I see, there was not enough possibilities to express something in such fashion. But my intention to create this kind of puzzle is not to re-make old game from scratch, but to use existing engine's features and apply them to this new game. That's why, I decided to avoid those problems and create new engine for this game. PSD - still images (21 PNG) PSD - game's scene description (PDF) 21 PNG with scene description - 21+ Art Collection. It's available for free to download. You can even post your critique about that. Thanks. Concept The most interesting things in game - are the new idea and new solution of player's problems. Let's begin. You are in a prison, where you have to find out things and they are hidden. There are 21 pieces of paper in game, on which people write something about what happens in the prison. There are 5 captions on each piece of paper. In order to solve this puzzle, you have to understand them one by one. Imagining Prison-Wiki Solution of this puzzle is a walk through the film. As you see, there is an endless chain of scenes on the paper, which goes through the game. And each piece of paper has 5 of those scenes. During the game, you can find 5 captions. Each of them means: "If you want, I will reveal you a scene". After finding the first caption on each paper, you have to collect all the paper and then try to find next caption. If you find all captions, then the game is finished and you get reward. And what captions do? What do they say about hidden things in game? You have to collect cards and hide them in a room. If someone hides a card, then a scene begins. And if you hide a card under a wrong tile, then the scene will be revealed to others. If you don't want to reveal what you are hiding, then you need to be sure that you place the card under right tile. Then you just have to be patient and not disturbing other people, who play the game. You don't need to wait the end of the scene. But if you put your cards under right tiles, then everyone has to hide their cards,
