"Yes, you should put your hands behind your back," I said. "I don't need to put my hands behind my back," the deputy told me. "Right," I said. I wasn't upset. You know, I didn't feel like I'd won this round. I only had one pair of hands. I couldn't do anything to the deputy. Still, I did feel a certain satisfaction. I had done something after all. "What's your name?" "Toni." "Toni, you've got a lovely voice," the deputy said, "and you could be sweet as well as fierce." The deputy handcuffed my hands behind my back. "You can get a job, you know, doing this," the deputy said. "Yes," I said. "It's not a bad idea. It can be a career," he said. I was starting to smile. The deputy said: "I have to give you another warning. As a lawyer, I have to ask you one question: do you want to go to court?" "No." "Okay," the deputy said. "You could be dangerous," I said. "I am dangerous," the deputy told me. "I mean to you." "You are dangerous to me," the deputy said, "but you're not dangerous to society." "I just want to see you in this bra," the deputy said. c9d1549cdd
