Instead of the string of diatonic notes in a scale, the scale is defined by a set of one, two, or three pitches. Think of a scale like a staircase or a ladder where the set of notes you play forms a series of steps and each scale has its own specific step. The key, or scale degree, is the starting point of each staircase. The octave contains twelve scale degrees (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12). The triad contains three scale degrees. This song presents all the modes: diatonic, melodic, and harmonic minor. This song is based on a pentatonic scale and uses only a minor scale. Therefore, you only need to use the scale degree 1, 6, and 11. To hear all of these modes, you need to practice three keys and two scales at once. The sheet music contains three keys: A flat, A minor, and E major. The scale degrees are written on the staff under the notes with the key signature above the staff. Notes written on the same staff line are in the same pitch. To accompany the melody, the song has four chords that are played in the chord sheet. This song is often used as a practice or sight reading exercise. It's simple and easy to understand, so it is perfect for beginners and to accompany beginners with. download: 0cc13bf012
