should be recycled when redeployed. However, my apps deployed via the classic Azure Portal do not seem to get de-registered and recycled. They are just still running. Is there any need to recycle them? A: This is an issue in the classic portal. A fix has been made in the portal, please download the latest portal version (5.0.3), and redeploy your apps to see the change. Oregon The Oregon Department of Environmental Quality will host a series of public meetings for the fall (September 2019 to June 2020) on OR-30 West to include construction projects. (Oregon Department of Environmental Quality) Oregon's Department of Environmental Quality has set a schedule of public meetings to begin Thursday, Sept. 5, on a controversial road project along Oregon's heavily traveled Interstate 5 corridor in the Eugene-Springfield area.

Since the Oregon Department of Transportation built the West Eugene Parkway in 2008, which follows Ore. 30 west of Interstate 5, the state has faced push-back from residents who believe the roadway — with a large concrete median — is a waste of taxpayer money. "I can assure you that the West Eugene Parkway will improve the safety of the West Eugene Corridor and the overall quality of life for the businesses and residents that call this segment home," Oregon Department of Transportation spokesman Ben Fried said Tuesday in a statement. Fried did not address concerns from residents who have raised worries about raised dust and traffic congestion during construction. He also did not answer questions about the true cost of the project. State funding for the $5.5 million project was cut to $3.4 million in 2017, Fried said. According to the state, the West Eugene Parkway, located in the Eugene-Springfield area, helps ease congestion and remove traffic that was associated with the "mega-projects" of the 1990s, while improving safety and access in the West Eugene Corridor.
