Selection of key new gameplay features added to FIFA 20 AI improvements Five World Cups FIFA 20 In FIFA 20, Overreaction – the mechanic that slows down players when they miss an open goal or make a bad decision, has been altered. When you miss an open goal or miss a pass you no longer suffer from a slowdown. You are still vulnerable, but you're not the only one. FIFA 19 FIFA 19 introduced a new element of tension when you miss a long shot. The ball would float in the air, like a basketball shooting animation, then drop with a heavy thud if you missed and missed by an inch or two. FIFA 18 On top of displaying an icon like the other customizable match attributes, this mode will now also affect your opponents. If you hit the match button now instead of the assign button, the match will play out how you'd expect. You won't be able to change this manually, FIFA 17 In FIFA 17, your regular gameplay controls have been simplified in a bid to improve accessibility across platforms and in-game settings. Players are now able to make "accurate 1-on-1 dribbles" by pressing both control buttons as a shortcut for their normal right and left dribbles. Your normal right and left dribbles will still be available by pressing "A" and "B". FIFA 16 FIFA 16 set new industry standards with the introduction of the latest version of the "H.U.R.S. Engine", enabling FIFA 16 to run at 60 frames per second (FPS) on the PlayStation 3 and Xbox 360. For the first time, FIFA ran in real-time and at 60 FPS on the PlayStation 2, PS3, Xbox and Xbox 360. FIFA 15 AI improvements FIFA 15 continued its tradition of improving the artificial intelligence in its latest version. For the first time in the history of the series, there is no more active defending (a.k.a. off-the-ball). The AI now focuses on defending the ball, not your players. All tackles are now calculated and considered. There is no more punishing the players for making mistakes: the AI takes into consideration other players' movements and how they perform.
