maker of the new mobile game of October (the game where you run after a character and try to catch him/her by gathering different colored orbs). I wanted to let you all know that the launch is not happening today. I am happy to say that we will be releasing the game on Saturday, October 9th, and I want to keep the details close to the chest. Our goal is to have a soft-launch as much as possible so that the game is not overwhelmed by the vast amount of information and hype. If you want to try it out, it is just a few clicks away from the App Store (on the iPhone/iPod Touch) and Android Market (on the phone or tablet). I hope you can check it out, and I thank you all for your support over the last few months.

===== hga To prevent people from taking advantage of the launch dates the launch states: "Users can download it beginning October 8 at 12:00 PM Pacific Time." ----- pbhjpbhj I started to download it yesterday - have it on my iPad now. Good game but... didn't I read on HN a while back about an AppX.apk file floating around somewhere? To avoid potential flooding of the AppStore it appears you added that too? Any idea where it is? Is that an option in the MakeAppX.apk included with the 3a67dffeec

In this article I am going to discuss one of the best useful software. This software is called PST Walker, which is able to view and export any email from Outlookpst file. I am trying to store a number from a user to be then added on to another number. I keep getting an error saying, "invalid conversion from int to int in line 5". Is there a way to overcome this?

#include int main() {
int n1 = 0; int n2 = 0;
int n3 = 0; int n4 = 0;
int n5 = 0; int n6 = 0;
```

std::cout > n1;
std::cout > n2;
std::cout > n3;
std::cout > n4;
std::cout
