How I can do this? The result should be: `var data = [{ name: 'b', url: '' }, { name: 'b', url: '' }, { name: 'b', url: '' }, ];` I know that I can do this: `data.sort((a, b) => a.name > b.name ? 1 : -1).map((item, key) => ({name: key, url: item.url}))` But I need a better solution. A: You may use `Lodash _.sortBy` to sort arrays, based on a given comparison function and a given sort order: `var data = [{"name":"a","url":""` follows that the immense tragedy related to me in this document is more than the personal tragedy of an individual, more than the tragedy of this man (and of my correspondent too), more than the tragedy of man as a whole, more than the tragedy of the Earth. It is about the tragedy of our whole life on Earth. We are all victims of this dreadful catastrophe, and everyone of us must struggle for the life of the world. Thank you, Thomas Merton, my spiritual father and mentor, and whoever else is reading this, for your profound engagement.

Thank you, love, Antonio ## **1**
