* Photoshop works best with JPEG (joint photographic experts) files. RAW images should be converted to JPGs when they are being edited or retouched. * Some of Photoshop's other tools, such as Motion, Elements, and Illustrator, are much more useful than Photoshop for the creation and production of finished art, but many people use Photoshop for all types of artistic endeavors, both for commercial and personal use. You have choices. * You can apply or remove Photoshop's filters in layers. Each layer may contain a fill effect, such as a texture. You may apply filter effects to a layer or even several layers. * You can add and remove vector images, text, and other aspects to an image. Photoshop has a more sophisticated version that's optimized for a touch-screen device. Photoshop Elements has also been created for people who prefer a less complex tool and whom do not have advanced computer skills. Whether you're a more technical user or a novice, I can guarantee you that Photoshop is a part of your basic computer system. It's an essential tool and you'll be using it continually for many years to come. And once you've mastered some of its tools, you'll continue to use the Photoshop tools to modify and manipulate your images for years to come. In the following sections, you discover some of Photoshop's most helpful editing and enhancing tools. Managing layers A common misconception when using Photoshop is that you modify the image with one step — like inserting text, for example. But all the modifications you make do not touch the image itself until you apply a subsequent step. In Photoshop, each change is made using a layer. A layer is the foundation of image editing. Layers enable you to change the appearance of an image, as well as manipulate it, without having to alter the actual pixels of the image. You can change the arrangement of a shape, drag a text box and place it wherever you like, or even duplicate an object and cut it to a desired size. So, you can change an image without having to worry about the small things like correcting minor details. To create a new layer, select the layer's icon in the Layers palette. From the Layers palette, you can insert, move, resize, and edit other layers. You can also create several different types of layers to work on different types of images. Figure 8-1 illustrates the Layers palette, with some ready-to-

What's New in the?

Brown was in the clear after the first round but finished just short on Saturday night after a heated final round Novak Djokovic was on the edge of his seat as he waited for first-round opponent Luca Vianello to enter the hall after winning his singles' match on Saturday. The Italian took time to warm up as the Serb, seeded one, finalised his pre-match preparation. And even then, both were frustrated they didn't have more time to prepare for their fourth-round match. Manchester United's incredible journey that ended with Delaney's last-minute free-kick Read more The frustration soon evaporated as they entered the change room on the opposite side of the court, Djokovic eventually claiming a 3-1 victory for a 4-1 win. As the winner and the loser entered a small glass-walled room from which they would emerge to go over final preparations, Djokovic, a two-time Olympic champion, let out a sigh of relief. "He's just a little bit taller," the World No 1 told reporters. "That was the first time that I felt like I was going to win this game, we were so close. Honestly I felt like he was winning. So, I was smiling a little bit. It was a very high pressure moment. Very important match." The 20-year-old lost the first three games, but two of the three sets were won by a break of serve. Djokovic's record against his countryman – Djokovic has won 13 of the 20 matches they have contested – is absolutely sublime. "It's not about the result," he said. "It's something that I can't explain. There's a lot of good things that we have done on the court and there are things that we have to work on. At this moment, he's one of those guys that he was better than I was in the past, and he still is. Facebook Twitter Pinterest Djokovic also beat Davis Cup teammate Thiemo de Bakker in the third round of the Fijian clay swing. Compatibility: In this tutorial you will learn how to create deep learning algorithm which learns how to play a simple game called "Tetris". The ultimate goal is that the deep learning algorithm learns by itself how to play a simple game. For your information Tetris is a popular puzzle game which is played between two or more players. To get started, you will need to have a Deep learning code already written and the Tensorflow Package installed in your machine. I recommend installing the latest version of the packages from the following links and code to have
