[¶37.] The legislative history of SDCL 31-18-15 supports my reading of the statute. The Department of Revenue's email concedes that the purpose of SDCL 31-18-15 is to allow people to reduce their income taxes in the current tax year when they know that they will be able to deduct their future additional retirement income in future tax years, but the statute could be applied in the reverse scenario. It was not devised to reward people who create additional retirement income for themselves in future years. [¶38.] The Court's decision today will cause future taxpayers to be burdened with additional tax liability. If other taxpayers decide to eliminate their retirement contributions in the current year in anticipation of lower retirement income in future years, they will also be burdened with 0cc13bf012

I have a div containing a number of tables. I tried to use tableorter but I can't wrap the table in the div. Is it possible to do it this way? A: TableSorter can wrap tables and divs However when a table is wrapped in a div, it doesn't work in IE6, IE7 and IE8 A workaround is to create a "fake" table inside the div and use the wrapperclass option in the initialized option for TableSorter A: If you do want to have tableorter work in all browsers that it supports, take a look at tableorter 2.0. It works like a charm if you have tables inside of divs. Study: 4.8 Million People Become Case Filed With FDA Due to Dermatological Complaints Date: July 30, 2013
