So, when Claire's grandma cancels her plans and she can't look for a job, she learns to sell skin-tight clothes to pay the rent. But then Claire discovers the dark side of selling a unique item that she never knew existed until she saw it in a brothel. Along the way, she uncovers secrets about her grandmother's past, and also learns that something is wrong with her looks, her body, and her mind. Ten people wake up in a hotel room with no idea how they got there. Could it be a drug induced dream? Or a trick of the mind? When they find themselves trapped in a trap, the suspense only deepens as they are forced to race against the clock to escape... A quick-thinking maid is about to be trapped and killed in a mysterious mansion. Her only chance is to escape out of a bathroom window. It's a tight squeeze, but will she have the strength to make it out of the window? When a botched second job goes wrong, a trio of robbers are trapped inside a high-rise apartment building. Their only chance is to escape by the fire escape route. Or is there another way out? A middle school teacher is getting back at one of her students who he treats horribly. In an effort to teach him a lesson, he turns the tables on her and traps her inside a maze of the school with his evil henchman and a couple of snide kids. A young man is ordered to open his home to his crazy family. The only problem is that his house is so full of monsters that they start to go berserk. Can he and his love make it out of the house alive? It's the age-old question: Are short and long relationships equally happy? Well, say goodbye to your favorite movie after watching this amazing (in a good way) documentary. "Between Two Worlds: Love and Separation in American Society" looks at the nature of long-term relationships and tells us that not all of them are
