The reality of this statement can not be questioned as it is our daily experience. When you pass a set of tests, a series of exams, a course, etc., you have a feeling of success. But there are people who, having failed in one or many situations, remain continually unsatisfied with himself, even after having achieved a desired goal. A similar feeling of success is experienced by those who, having reached a goal, still feel dissatisfied with themselves. It is the analysis of the experience in one of these two ways that leads to professional success. Tutorial KTS 520 One of the most important things in achieving any goal is to have a plan of action. Having a plan of action means defining a goal, analyzing the necessary conditions to achieve it, and resolving all the required steps needed to get to it. Without a plan of action it is impossible to achieve success. Any successful person in any profession has defined a goal, analyzed the factors necessary to achieve it and resolved each stage of his plan of action.
