

Pds 2000 Crack Full ((TOP))

A: You are trying to kill the process. Remember that kill kills the process and lets the process manager restart it! Try the following: kill -SIGTERM PID # (or the PID of the process you want to kill) Example: kill -SIGTERM 1234 What does this do? Well, you are telling the operating system to kill the process with the ID of 1234 with the SIGTERM signal. If your process can handle this signal, the operating system will exit it cleanly. If it can't, well... you know what happens. The problem with using kill is that the process manager will respawn the process. This is called a zombie process. If you wish to do this: sudo /etc/init.d/apache2 stop And then: kill -SIGTERM PID # (or the PID of the process you want to kill) This will make the process manager not respawn the process so you can get rid of the zombie process. EDIT: You are also trying to close the process without letting the process manager kill the process. What you have to do is change your command line. If you have: "C:\Program Files (x86)\SAP\SAP2000\SAP2000" /startup /NTASKTRACE /567 /PDS /t6000 /f60 /d2880 /s @ "C:\ProgramData\SAP\SAP2000\PDsz3000.ntf" /c1 /f3060 Change it to: "C:\Program Files (x86)\SAP\SAP2000\SAP2000" /startup /NTASKTRACE /567 /PDS /t6000 /f60 /d2880 /s @ "C:\ProgramData\SAP\SAP2000\PDsz3000.ntf" /c1 /f3060 What this does is that it tells the SAP2000 process manager to ignore the kill command. Meaning it will still kill the process. It just won't let it respawn the process. A: The quickest way to restart a process is to use the taskkill command. For example, if the process name is PDS, you would do: taskkill /F /PID Replace
